01. WHAT IS AN EXCHANGE?

It is a platform where users register to buy, sell or exchange cryptocurrencies. The types of cryptoassets supported by each exchange can vary greatly, it all depends on how the platform chooses to work.

There is also the option to trade, which is characterized by purchasing a cryptocurrency when its value is decreasing and selling it when it is growing, generating a constant profit margin.

In an exchange, the user has the possibility to purchase cryptocurrencies directly for the value of the order that is open at the moment, or also having the chance of negotiating, informing the value you are willing to pay - or charge - for each unity of the digital currency. As soon as the purchase or selling order is open, it is necessary to wait until the seller/buyer accepts the proposal. In addition, you can also exchange a type of asset for another, as you want to.
